molly.seeligson@utdallas.edu

Since 2007, Molly has served as Director of the Eugene McDermott Scholars Program, recruiting outstanding young people to The University of Texas at Dallas (UT Dallas) and supporting them in their development as scholars, leaders, and servants.

Prior to joining UT Dallas, Molly was head of The Fulton School in Heath, Texas, and of The Clear Spring School in Eureka Springs, Arkansas, both accredited independent schools which she helped to establish. She is a lifetime trustee of three independent schools. An avid gardener, Molly is a member of the Founders Garden Club and the Belsterling Foundation of the Dallas Garden Club. A certified coach, Molly has extensive experience in personal, professional, and corporate coaching.

A Dallas native, Molly splits her time between Dallas, Eureka Springs in Arkansas and Kerala in India. Molly attended Dallas' Greenhill School, which was founded by her parents, Helen and Bernard Fulton, and graduated from Southern Methodist University with a B.S. in mathematics and certified to teach five high school subjects. Molly was recently recognized by Greenhill School as the 2015 recipient of the Distinguished Alumni Award for her lifelong commitment to Greenhill School and her dedication to improving the lives of others through education.

Under her guidance and leadership, the McDermott Program has grown in size, scope, quality, and recognition.
