Lead UTD

What

Lead UTD is an academic training and leadership development program envisioned by Dr. Inga H. Musselman during her interview process prior to being appointed as the Provost in 2017. Lead UTD will cover a wide range of topics to understand the challenges faced by leaders in higher education and how they can develop the acumen and agility needed to respond to such challenges.

Provost Musselman has asked Dr. Serenity Rose King, Associate Provost for Policy and Program Coordination, to lead the program in collaboration with invited guest speakers.

Why / Goals

• Identify, develop, and cultivate potential UT Dallas academic leadership.
• Better prepare department/program heads, associate deans, deans, faculty committee chairs or vice chairs for success.
• Enhance leadership culture on campus: increase in communication and transparency.
• Be responsive to emerging trends in higher education.
• Supplement external opportunities for leadership development.

Who

• First cohort group in 2019-2020, faculty only, selected by Provost
• Moving forward, phased approach into a more comprehensive program to include staff in partnership with other units on campus
• Future cohorts will be nominated by their supervisors, with the exception of first-time deans, associate deans, and program heads, all of whom will be automatically included by nature of their position
• 2019-2020 Roster

When / How / What Topics

• Beginning in Fall 2019: Nine Friday afternoons throughout the year (meet twice in September, then once monthly in October, November, January, February, March, April, May).
• Interactive
